NOT A CASE READY. When Washington County Court Reconvened To-day.

Washington county court convened this morning after a long recess due to the grip plague. In spite of that fact, when the docket was called, there was not a case ready for trial. The plaintiff in the case of Hiram Sparrow, admin-istrator of the estate of Harriet Bailey, to a swift U. S. destroyer, arrived in the city from an Atlantic port this morning to pass a furlough at his home on Cliff street.

Is ready for trial, but the defense had moved for a continuance. A conference occurred at the bench relative to the argument and as to whether Judge Z.

S. Stanton was disqualified.

The cases of Phelps vs. Utley and Utiey vs. Phelps were continued because of illness of attorney in one instance, and a witness on the other side. The case of Maude Simpson vs. Central Vermont railway is continued, as were the cases of Gladys and Cornelius Lawrence vs. the town of East Montpelier; Moses Goslant vs. Asa Tyrell. A settlement is pending in the cases of Clinton Millar vs. A. A. Bianchi and A. A. Bianchi vs. Clinton Millar, it was stated. Illness in the case of Button vs. Knight was suggested and death in the case of Fynn vs. Ross, C. P. Heath administrator. The case of Joseph Burtlett vs. estate of next week, and those of E. Gomez vs. the three insurance companies to follow that unless it is decided to try Sparrow va. Bank case, in which it is understood a motion for continuance is to be argued. Judge Fred M. War-Time Needs of Colored Schools.

ing the Elias Lyman Coal company, was a letter addressed by Commissioner of in conference with the state fuel adpersons throughout the country who have been interested at one time or another in the education of the negro. Dr. Claxton savs: "Most of the secondary and higher schools for negroes in the South are supported by private philanthropy. These schools are largely denominational and have some assured though inadequate support from the church organizations back of them. But many of the best private schools, including especially the effective small schools of the industrial type, are independent in character, and have no income except from donations. "The demands which the many neces sary war appeals have made on the pub-lic purse have made it almost impossible for these private schools to raise enough money to keep open. Church organiza-tions have found that contributions have been somewhat lessened, and the inde pendent schools have experienced considsame time, the high prices of food and materials have made it necessary for the schools to raise more money than ever to maintain the old standards. A num demic and industrial type, are not so widely known. They need money urgently; they need money not only to do the necessary work that they have been doing for years, but they need more money to provide the special training imperatively needed for large numbers of colored people in the war emergency. Con-tributions to schools that are doing a necessary war work should make a patriotic appeal to anyone who has the means to give for education. It should not be forgotten, however, that nothing is gained by responding to appeals for gifts to schools that do not exist or have no value as educational institutions.

Many such appeals are made. "Determination of the relative merits and needs of colored schools has become a much more simple matter since the publication of bulletin 1916 No. 38-39, of the bureau of education, which lists practically all the colored schools of the South, with descriptions and recommen dations for each school. The bureau will gladly supplement the information con-The special war-time needs of many tained in this report and answer any of the colored schools are emphasized in questions in regard to these schools."
